

Tolstoy's Sense of Honor.
The family of Count Tolstoy has a large circle of acquaintances, and hard to find a family more hospitable to guests. At one music party a lady's singing displeased Count Tolstoy's boys and they adjourned to another room and made a noise. Their father lost patience and went after them, and a characteristic admonition ensued:
"Are you making a noise on purpose?" he asked.
After some hesitation came an answer in the affirmative: "Y-y-yes."
"Does not her singing please you?"
"Well, no. Why does she howl?"
"So you wish to prohibit her singing?" asked Count Nikolai, in a serious tone.
"Yes."
"Then go out and say so, or stand in the middle of the room and tell everyone present. That would be rude, but bright and honest. But you have got together and are squealing like grasshoppers in a corner. I will not endure such protests."—Newcastle (England) Chronicle.

Scaring Snakes in West Africa.
A gentleman who recently returned from the western coast of Africa tells how natives provide against the dangers of venomous snakes which abound in these regions. The Africans on the coast, he said, are more intelligent than those in the interior. Just south of the Republic of Liberia, there is a large swampy region, which extends for hundreds of miles along the coast. Whenever it is deemed necessary to penetrate this vast morass, which abounds in snakes, the natives simply rub the soles of their feet with garlic and oil. The scent of the garlic is too much for the delicate stomachs of the reptiles, and they avoid the natives as they are able. This ensures almost absolute safety. The boat-constructors will even hesitate to attack a man smelling of the odoriferous vegetable. Another method, employed by the natives, when they wish to sit to rest, is to switch the air with fresh. The peculiar pulse of the red soils to inspire serpents with terror for they hasten away out of the hearing of the sound.

Still More Counterfeiting.
The Secret Service has unearthed another band of counterfeiters and secured a quantity of bogus bills, which are cleverly executed. Things of great value are being selected for imitation, notably "Coca-Cola" Stomach Bitters, which has many imitators but no equals for medicinal value. Indigestion, dyspepsia and constipation.

WILLIAM J. BRYAN'S ELECTION IS ASSURED.
Conjecture has no part in the statement made by the National Democratic Committee when it asserts that William Jennings Bryan will receive the electoral votes of New York, Indiana and Illinois.

This claim is based upon careful canvasses of the States in question. This means the election of Mr. Bryan, as it resulted in the Democratic victory in 1892.

The party of the people—the Democratic party—will also carry Michigan, Ohio and North Dakota—three States claimed as certain for McKinley by the Hanna people.

The latter three are not necessary—but they will participate in the land-slide.

Hannan in Ohio, Tammerson in Illinois, Standard Oilism in Indiana, Rooseveltism in Michigan, New York have contributed to the result.

As to Kentucky, Maryland, Delaware and West Virginia, there never was any substantial doubt. They are not less sure to return Bryan electoral votes than Alabama, Tennessee and Virginia.

The border States have become disgusted with their brief regime of Addickses, Taylors, McCombes and Atkinsons.

Michigan is naturally a Democratic State. It has been held by the enemy for two reasons: Money first, then Power. That is all part of the game.

As to Kentucky, Maryland, Delaware and West Virginia, there never was any substantial doubt. They are not less sure to return Bryan electoral votes than Alabama, Tennessee and Virginia.

The Republican leaders gave up Nebraska and Kansas three weeks ago. They have entered their formal protest at South Dakota, where they hope to defeat Senator Pettigrew. It is understood they will trade McKinley votes to accomplish this end. They will not succeed.

extravagant in his demands for money, and his total sum of $21,000,000 more than we have ever before paid for our navy, even during periods of active warfare.

It must be evident to the people from these figures that there is something wrong in what the Democrats have had to say of the growth of militarism in this country, and that military glory is a very expensive luxury for the taxpayers.

Wages Have Not Increased.
The McKinley fair tale about prosperity is on a par with the other falsehood about wages increasing during McKinley's administration. Pennsylvania is a Republican State, and its official reports are certainly without any coloring favorable to Democracy.

The Pennsylvania report for 1898 (Department of Internal Affairs, part 3, page 461) gives comparative statistics for 101 industries for the years 1896, 1897 and 1898. It gives also statistics for a smaller number of identical establishments for each year since 1892. For the 101 establishments the following figures are given:

| Average days operation | 1896 | 1897 | 1898 |
|-------------------------|----------|----------|----------|
| operation | 268 | 276 | 280 |
| average annual earnings | $404.22 | $376.48 | $383.62 |
| average daily wages | 1.51 | 1.36 | 1.38 |

Thus, though working on an average eighteen more days in 1898 than in 1896, there was a decline of $10.69 in the average year's earnings. For the 338 establishments for which statistics are given since 1892 the figures are as follows:

| Days in operation | Average annual earnings | Daily wages |
|-------------------|-------------------------|-------------|
| 1892.....294 | $400.35 | $1.06 |
| 1893.....298 | 402.89 | 1.07 |
| 1894.....298 | 413.00 | 1.49 |
| 1895.....288 | 444.72 | 1.54 |
| 1896.....276 | 449.64 | 1.59 |
| 1897.....287 | 429.28 | 1.48 |
| 1898.....298 | 453.73 | 1.52 |

Massachusetts is also a Republican State. The Massachusetts report for 1897 (page 174) presents comparative statistics for 4,695 identical establishments for the years 1896 and 1897, showing average annual earnings as $426.69 in the former and $421.69 in the latter year. The average time worked was 281.63 days in the former and 283.33 days in the latter year. Thus there was $5 less pay for over two days' work more.

THIS MAN BULLET-PROOF.
Scott Soldier's Experience in the Battle of Althara.

A letter written by Corporal Laurie of the Scott's Highlanders to his sister, describing the battle of Althara, says: "I suppose you have seen me reported as slightly wounded and, pictured me as an interesting invalid. Well, I was struck, but the effect was so small that I have often been worse hurt in a foot-ball match. But during the rest of the day and for some days afterward I have been an object of interest, and have been questioned by almost every officer and man in the battalion, referred to as the 'bullet-proof man,' and asked if I would mind letting a section fire a few rounds at me to see if they could do me any harm. The fact is that I got most of the corners of my clothing shot off, while personally I was unharmed."

"Before I entered the arena I was not struck, but shortly afterward a bullet took off the toe of my left shoe without hitting my foot, the shoe being a size too big for easy marching and shooting at night. Then my bayonet was struck and bent over at a right angle. Then a shot went through my sleeve, near my left wrist, tearing two holes, but not hurting myself. Then my rifle was struck while I was loading, the bullet splintering the butt and being stopped by an iron belt which I met. This bullet would certainly have gone right into my body but for my being there. Then a nigger in a trench let drive at me with a spear, missed my ribs by an inch and slit up my haversack. A bullet from the enemy's hand just enough to make it bleed."

"When I reached the river bank, which was nearly perpendicular, a shot came from the bottom, about twenty feet below and a little to the left, which caused me to jump and grab the backache, and always tired, please remember that there is an absolute remedy which will relieve you of your suffering as it did Mrs. Rice. Proof is monumental that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the cure that it has, and no other woman has helped so many women by direct advice as has Mrs. Pinkham; her experience is greater than that of any living person. If you are sick, write and get her advice; her address is Lynn, Mass."

How a Black Feline Learned to Repeat Fly-Paper.
When a young cat lives near Dr. Hild Hill Park and appears at his office the other morning his face in its perturbed expression showed that he had passed a sleepless night. In fact, he had spent a considerable portion of the hours which are supposed to be passed in pleasant dream-trying to remove a sticky fly-paper mixture from the caudal appendage of his particular pet—a large and handsome black cat.

The possibilities are that neither the young man nor the cat will ever forget the experience. The drama opened about 9 o'clock at night. While prowling about the house the cat's evil genius led him to jump upon the bedside. The fly paper was there. Just how it happened the sole witness of the disaster did not know, relating the tale more or less in the style of a cat. The cat, a loud growl as it touched and clung to the fly paper. Then there was pandemonium for fifteen minutes. The paper terrified the cat. He tried to rid himself of it by rolling, and made it stick tighter. The cat hissed, spit and scratched. He tried to bite it, but he was too small. He fled under the sofa and then upstairs. The youngest of the family was asleep. She awakened in terror as the cat rushed across her bed leaving a section of the paper on her face.

Into the next room rushed the cat. He rolled on the bureau, and about twenty-five pins, two pieces of ribbon, a set of elegant papers, a scarf and a necktie stuck to his tail. Downstairs he went, carrying the collection with him, and took refuge under the refrigerator. After the cat had vainly been trying to seize him, managed to get hands on him. The frightened animal had been terrified into docility. Warm water, olive oil, alcohol and benzine were applied to his once smooth fur. He was then washed and dried. He gathered up on it had been picked off one by one to an accompaniment of mews and spits. It was past midnight when this was accomplished. In the morning the cat made a hostile demonstration against another piece of fly paper, but left it alone.

Shooting into a Hallstern.
To shoot into a hallstern it is necessary to destroy the revolving or whirling current of air. This can only be done by an opposing current of air, hence the philosophy of shooting cannon balls at the hall clouds is plain. The cannon balls passing through the hall, create a temporary vacuum, which is quickly filled by the air rushing in behind the ball and toward the clouds. When this current of air becomes stronger than the whirling current or strong enough to interfere with it the whirling current will become and the hallstern is destroyed.

Found by Grave-Diggers.
The grave-diggers who were employed to dig Mr. Gladstone's grave in Westminster Abbey came upon a leaden coffin of some unknown person. They also found remains of other persons of whose burial there is no record, among them a skull very much worn away, and resembling that of a young man, shoulder bones and small bones of the arm in excellent preservation, but completely browned through age. And at a greater depth skulls were found, which, like the others, were only left free from disappearance into mold by the dryness of the soil.

HELP FOR WOMEN
"I do not feel very well, I am so tired all the time. I do not know what is the matter with me."
You hear these words every day; as often as you meet your friends just as often are these words repeated. More than likely you speak the same significant words yourself, and no doubt you do feel far from well most of the time. Mrs. Ella Rice, of Chelsea, Wis., whose portrait we publish, writes that she suffered for two years with headache, nervousness, backache, and had all kinds of miserable feelings, all of which was caused by falling and inflammation of the womb, and after doctoring with physicians and numerous medicines she was entirely cured by

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.
If you are troubled with pains, fainting spells, depression of spirits, reluctance to get anywhere, headache, backache, and always tired, please remember that there is an absolute remedy which will relieve you of your suffering as it did Mrs. Rice. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the cure that it has, and no other woman has helped so many women by direct advice as has Mrs. Pinkham; her experience is greater than that of any living person. Butterflies Sleep Head Down.
The butterflies invariably go to sleep head downward. It folds and contracts its wings to the utmost. The effect is to reduce its size and shape to a narrow ridge, hardly distinguishable in shape and color from the seed heads on thousands of other stems among the weeds. The butterfly also sleeps on top of the stem. In the morning, when the sunbeams warm them, all these greasy sleepers on the grass tops open their wings and the colorful beauties are started with a thousand living flowers of purest azure.

The Khedive of Egypt's Wife.
The wife of the Khedive of Egypt enjoys a somewhat novel position among Eastern women as the beloved wife of a devoted husband. It was when the Khedive was a young man, and the Khedive's wife, the present Khedive, Ikhel Hassan, was the admiration of the Khedive. She is of the Circassian race and possessed of unusual beauty. Her management of her household resembles much the European customs. European servants perform the duties, and European governesses instruct her three daughters. She avoids the paints and powders so much in vogue among Egyptian women, and in the matter of dress prefers European clothing. Her progressive ideas have led her to share the education of her children and keep pace with their studies.
